New, Three-Night Open Houses Draw Crowds

The Lancaster County Career & Technology Center implemented a new, and successful, three-night format this year for its annual Open Houses. The annual event attracted prospective students and their families to each of the CTC's campuses on successive evenings in November. According to preliminary data collected at registration stations at each campus, more students attended this year than they did at each of the last two Open House events.

The new format, where each main campus had its own evening, was conceived in the spring of 2019. It came about as a result of suggestions from Open House attendees. LCCTC administrators had heard that Open House attendees who were interested in information on multiple CTC programs were rushing through an event at one campus and driving across the county to attend another campus and get information on a different program. Multiple evenings for the Open Houses seemed the obvious solution. (The Health Sciences Campus held their open house the same evening as the Willow Street campus. Additionally, the Health Science Campus holds regular, monthly open houses on their own.)

There were 364 student registrations in total for the Open House events. Including parents and other guests, CTC administrators estimate that over 1,000 people attended the three-night event. Some of those registrations were the same students and families attending more than one campus event. On preliminary review of the registration data, one student from Donegal School District attended each of the Open Houses and got information on Cabinetmaking and Wood Technology at Brownstown, Health Care at Willow Street, and Early Childhood Education at Mount Joy. Another student from Warwick School District attended Computer System Technology and Cabinetmaking and Wood Technology at Brownstown, Diesel Equipment Technology at Willow Street, and Electro-Mechanical Engineering Technology at Mount Joy.

Local Business Donates Coach to CTC

The white motor coach eased into a parking spot on the lot at the Lancaster County Career & Technology Center, Mount Joy campus. With a hiss of hydraulics that sounded like a sigh, it stopped and settled into its new life in retirement as a training passenger bus for the CTC's Commercial Driving program. Executive Coach, Inc., headquartered in Lancaster, donated the passenger bus to the CTC. The motor coach had reached a point where it had many thousands of miles left in it but was old and used enough to be moved out of active rotation.

Dale McMichael, President and Owner of Executive Coach said that the bus was hardy and had plenty of life left to be useful in its new role – as a training tool for future Commercial Driver's License (CDL) trainees. McMichael said, "The Lancaster County CTC is a major source of drivers for Executive Coach. We're happy that this bus will help prepare future drivers for careers with us and in the region."

Mike Pasqualucci, the Lancaster County CTC Director of Transportation, said that the bus will be invaluable to the CDL program, particularly for drivers seeking a passenger certification for a CDL Class A or B, the class of license needed to drive the large 40- to 56-passenger charter motor coaches.

Pasqualucci said that driving a motor coach or bus is very different from driving a tractor trailer. He explained that driving an automatic transmission motor coach does not require the additional skill needed to incorporate the manual transmission clutch into driving. Pasqualucci said that some drivers have difficulty mastering the coordination and multi-tasking necessary to shift and drive a tractor trailer but are perfectly able to maneuver an automatic transmission bus.

"With the addition of the motor coach, our CDL program has the capacity to offer real-world, behind-the-wheel experience during training for our students to take out into the real world," Pasqualucci added.

The new training motor coach glided smoothly through the Mount Joy lot, giving way to a couple of tractor trailers maneuvering through the steps of CDL testing. The CDL program at the Lancaster County CTC continues through the winter, with new classes starting each month. Prospective students interested in earning a CDL can contact Deb DiEugenio at 717-653-3003 for program details and registration.

Adult Education Welding Class Tours High Steel

Christopher Busch, the Adult Education Welding Instructor at the Mount Joy campus of the Lancaster County Career & Technology Center is a bit of a Welder/Philosopher.

"I don't see a day when welding is a technology of the past. Welding will always be a revolving door of technology and will always be part of the technology innovations into the future. I think Welding in a whole is an endless possibility of opportunity," Busch proclaimed following a class tour to the Lancaster division of High Steel Structures, LLC. High Steel manufactures structural steel for a variety of industrial uses throughout the country.

Busch's Adult Education Welding class elected to tour High Steel because it is an industry leader and a valued partner in its support of the Lancaster County CTC. As Busch says, "We like to tour industrial companies who have donated time and equipment to our facility as well as who hire our graduates." He continued, saying the High Steel companies have a good number of CTC graduates, and currently having one of their employees in the CTC's full-year welding program.

One aspect of the tour that impacted the students was how close the skills they are learning mirror the skills needed at the larger scale in real world industry. Instructor Busch says that learning on the smaller scaled equipment directly relates to the work done in the High Steel shops. He said that the CTC cannot match the scale of the work done at High Steel but when we scale down and pay attention to the quantity of times a skill is practiced and to the quality of the work.

“Practice makes perfect. It all relates in the end, just the size of the job changes,” Busch said.

Busch continued saying that welding has changed modern civilization. It started with a forge and a hammer a thousand years ago and now welding is part of everyday life. We build power plants, ships, cars, trucks, trailers, skyscrapers, bridges, cranes, construction equipment, sanitary food systems, sewage removal and so much more. The world relies on welders and tours like this that show students that the craftsmanship of a welder is essential.

Busch’s pride in his class and his students is apparent and he hopes that touring industrial businesses like this hits home for them. “I hope my students come away with a sense of accomplishment and also the amazement factor. Most of my students have never been exposed to welding and the challenges it faces but walk away with a sense of pride when they realize how far they can go in life once they learn a trade,” he said.

Ford Company Honors CTC’s Automotive Program

Lancaster County Career & Technology Center’s Automotive Technology program was recognized on November 8 by the Ford Motor Company for being ranked in the top five percent of educational facilities in the country participating in the Ford Automotive Career Exploration (ACE) program. Ford Philadelphia regional personnel and local dealership sponsor, Keller Bros. Ford presented the recognition to about 50 CTC students and faculty members.

Keller Bros. Ford Service Manager, Jeff Gehman, told the students that Keller Bros. Ford currently has seven Automotive Technicians on staff who have gone through the Lancaster County CTC. “Keller Bros. Ford has looked to the Lancaster County CTC for years for competent, qualified, and hard-working technicians. And they have never let us down,” Gehman said.

Lancaster County CTC one of the top schools participating in the ACE program. This recognition is part of Ford’s TechDrive recruitment program to train future automotive technicians at a grass roots level. CTC students have been able to take some of the online training courses that technicians at a Ford dealership take and can transfer those to a Ford dealership when hired.

“Were so happy to be a part of the Ford TechDrive program,” Gehman said. “This grass roots initiative has not only helped the participating students you see here today, but raised awareness of technical careers among many other youths in the community as well through events like this and increased exposure to what it means to be an automotive service technician.”
